

Power Tactics for Supervisors and Managers

Communication skills to help you tactfully handle crucial conversations and unwanted behavior with finesse and precision

About Your Speaker:

Internationally acclaimed author, speaker, and expert communication trainer Dan O'Connor is the exclusive developer of the now famous Tactical Communication Training System, a communication development method that focuses on specific verbal tactics, such as danger phrases, power phrases, verbal patterns, free-style scripts, body-language strategies, and other powerful tools that participants can immediately use to achieve instant results both at work and at home.

Tactical Communication has revolutionized the communication training industry; no other system has ever been created that has had such an impact on the lives of so many people.

Brought to you in conjunction with:

Imagine what you could do if you had access to the highly-coveted communication tactics business leaders and entrepreneurs all around the world use every day to close more deals, communicate more clearly and persuasively, and more successfully navigate critical conversations. Would you like to find out?
