

Saline Wetlands Conservation Partnership Wins Conservation Award

The Saline Wetlands Conservation Partnership received the Nebraska Partnership for All-Bird Conservation (NPABC) Outstanding Bird Conservation Award at the 38th Annual Rivers and Wildlife Celebration held in March 2008. The event is co-hosted by Audubon's Rowe Sanctuary, Audubon Nebraska and the NPABC.

Accepting the Award – John Heaston (The Nature Conservancy), Dan Schulz (Lower Platte South Natural Resources District), Ted LaGrange (Nebraska Game and Parks Commission), Terry Genrich (City of Lincoln, Parks and Recreation Department), Tom Malmstrom (City of Lincoln, Parks and Recreation Department; Partnership Coordinator) and Jim Douglas award presenter, (Nebraska Game and Parks Commission and Nebraska Partnership for All-Bird Conservation)

The award was in recognition of the willingness of every partner involved to go above and beyond in the conservation of Nebraska's most rare and threatened natural community: the eastern saline wetlands. Full-share partners of the Saline Wetlands Conservation Partnership include The City of Lincoln, Lancaster County, Lower Platte South Natural Resources District, The Nature Conservancy, and Nebraska Game and Parks Commission.
