Caregivers: silent heros

While soldiers, firemen and police are often deemed heros, another group of folks live as silent heros. Caregivers.

Caregivers may check in with an older loved one or friend to assure their well-being. Caregivers mow, shovel, shop, transport and even write checks.

Those who benefit from a caregiver know the value of someone to help with medical appointments and physical care.

LAAA provides special services for caregivers who, usually, are more interested in caring for others than themselves. Free services include a health assessment with a nurse; nutrition assessment with a dietician; physical activity consultation with a personal trainer; and stress management tips. Appointments are available by calling Lifetime Health at 441-7575.

Alice Gingery appreciates respite

Days filled with doctors appointments, physical therapy and caring for husband, Bob, have quickly turned into months and years for Alice Gingery. The couple have been married 63 years.

In 2003, Bob suffered blood clots that blocked spinal fluid in his brain, causing a loss of balance. While surgery helped, Bob still needs assistance in moving, especially where no handrail is available.

Alice helps her husband walk. Without respite care, she never leaves him alone. Besides his balance, Bob also battles Alzheimer's Disease.

How does she do it? "I ask for the Lord's help quite a bit and my faith gives me strength," she said. "I must admit there are times I get depressed because I know things will never get better."

Alice also draws inspiration from her father who lost the use of his arms in World War I. "He was an amazing man," she said. He worked in student employment and housing at UNL then, with special tools, did woodworking. He built cabinets, church alters and more.

When Medicare quit paying for Bob's therapy at Synder Physical Therapy, Alice took over. "I heard the Senior Center had physical trainers to help, so I checked with Aging Services," she said. Bob lifted weights and worked on a step machine. "It helped a little bit," she said. She also sought help with the Alzheimers Association, Respite volunteers and support groups. LAAA also sent a nurse to provide her physical assessment and exercise suggestions.

The Gingerys have four children, 12 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Ehrenberg's energy

Living in Cedar Bluffs, Donna Ehrenberg takes plenty of responsibility for her family. Ehrenberg, for years, has cared for her mother and now helps her husband who battles cancer.

She said the Caregiver Program through the Lincoln Area Agency on Aging makes a huge difference in her life.

"It's an outstanding program," she said.

Since she shuffles most of her time between her mother and husband's doctors appointments, the LAAA health assessment was a blessing. "They came out and did some bloodwork and assured me things were going in the right direction," she said. "Knowing that they were there with some resources was very heartening."

The Caregiver program also consulted with Ehrenberg on an exercise

program to build her strength. "I need all the strength I can get to lift these two up," she said. "Any caregiver should look into this."

Ehrenberg retired as manager of the Cedar Bluffs Senior Center to take a full time job at the Saunders County Care Center in Wahoo. She left there to care for her mother after her father, who was her caregiver, died suddenly.

Her mother sustained severe injuries years ago in a head-on collision with a drunk driver.

Ehrenberg visited her mother for a year in the hospital. Mayo Clinic doctors taught Ehrenberg physical therapy. She helped her mother return to walking. Years later, a blood infection hit her mother and Ehrenberg helped with therapy again. She devoted hours every day to help her mother walk again. "I wanted her to be able to live at home," she said. Ehrenberg still helps with bathing, shopping, and lifting.

Now, she faces another challenge as her husband battles cancer. "God gets me through it," she said.

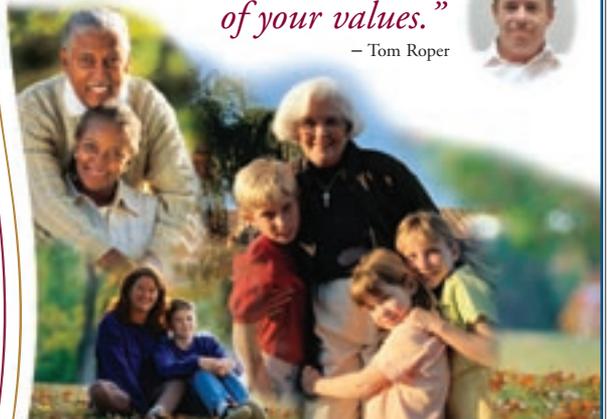

Alice and Bob Gingery rely on each other through progressively tougher times.

Gordon lives well at 96

Sally Gordon, 96, dances through life with class. The woman who's hobnobbed with governors and senators takes greater pride in her children and friends than herself. "I'm in awe of my kids," she said.

Gordon raised four children. She enjoys seven granddaughters and six great-grandchildren. One daughter, Connie, died recently.

For 22 years, Gordon has served as Nebraska's first female sergeant at arms for the Nebraska State Legislature. Wearing a red coat and badge, she wrestles hard-to-catch senators back to their chairs when a vote is called. She greets the public and brings notes from lobbyists to senators. "They say we're there for security, but I haven't had to rough up anyone yet," she said with a smile.

"Our lawmakers have a very responsible job to do and few of us realize how complicated it can be and how dedicated they are," she said.

Gordon walks. She walks to work at the Capitol Building. She walks to the grocery store. She's walked as far as Gateway Mall from her home near 15th and J Street. Her choice in transportation stemmed from her husband Robert Merle Gordon who in 1969 asked her to sell her car.

Walking, along with a common-sense diet filled with vegetables and homemade bread, are key to health, she said.

Sally's given name is Sarah. "There were so many relatives named Sarah, I decided to be different," she said. Born in Chicago March 26, 1909 to Russian immigrants, Gordon moved to Fort Collins, Colo. where she graduated high school and took some college courses. In 1925, she won the state championship for shorthand and 22 other awards for spelling, typing and rapid calculation.

That experience served her well as she received a job at the Terminal Building working for Ralph Harrington of the Home Savings and Loan Association in 1927. From there, Gordon worked as secretary for Nebraska Governors Brooks, Morrison, and Tiemann. She also worked as a court reporter, UNL Agronomy Department and for the extension director at Colorado State. Gordon worked for the Selective Service, UNL Physics Department and the Centennial Education Program. Gordon offered tours of the governor's mansion through administrations that spanned from Gov.'s Kerrey to Johanns.

While work fills her life, she's found time for other activities like giving speeches on aging, playing violin, poetry and modeling.

"When I was 49, I walked into Howland-Swanson's downtown and said, 'look, all your models don't have to be young and gorgeous.'" She displayed a photo of herself and was hired to model. Gordon modeled for various stores and charities until 2003.

"Lincoln had such great places downtown, like Miller and Paine and Magees," she said.

Gordon's life has been recorded in People Magazine, Money Talk, Life Lines and more. Her friend Mary Pipher, author of "Another Country: Navigating the Emotional Terrain of our Elders," and many other books devoted a chapter in her book to Gordon. It included some of Gordon's recipes.

She bowled until age 72 in the Lincoln City tournament.

New Medicare Advantage Plans in Nebraska

Starting this fall, Medicare recipients in Nebraska will have new choices in Medicare Advantage Plans. These plans work well for young retirees who are familiar with co-pays from previous health care plans. Medicare Advantage Plans require recipients to pay for some health care costs.

What you should know if you are considering a

Medicare Advantage Plan:

1. Those with Medicaid do not need a Medicare Advantage Plan
2. If your assets are limited and income low, a Medicare Advantage plan may not be right for you.
3. Not all medical providers will take all Medicare Advantage Plans.
4. Check with doctors and local hospitals to see if they will accept the plan you plan to purchase.
5. Find out exactly what your co-payments will be for every medical expense, not only for your doctors and hospitals but also for durable equipment and mental health care.
6. Make sure you have coverage if you are out of your local service area.

What is a Medicare Advantage Plan?

Congress created these plans to provide more choices and, in some cases, extra benefits by letting private companies offer Medicare benefits. These extra benefits could include prescription coverage, extra days in the hospital, or lower co-payments.

Some Medicare Advantage Plans offer vision and hearing benefits. Medicare Advantage Plans take the place of the traditional Medicare Supplemental Plans most people in Nebraska are familiar with. Medicare Advantage Plans will still require enrollment in Medicare Part B and you will still have to pay the monthly premium.

Medicare Advantage Plans may offer one of the following coverage choices:

Managed Care Plans

These plans let you go to doctors, specialists, or hospitals within the plan's network. A network means medical providers found on the plan's list. These providers have an agreement to accept the payment that the Medicare Advantage Plan has offered them for their services. You may have to choose a primary care doctor and then get a referral to see a specialist. You may pay lower co-payments and get extra benefits, such as extra days in the hospital.

Preferred Provider Organization Plans (PPOs)

In these plans you use doctors, specialists and hospitals in the plan's network. Going to other providers may cost extra. You don't need referrals to see doctors, specialists or go to hospitals that aren't in the network. You may receive extra benefits not offered by Medicare.

Private Fee-for-Service Plans

These plans let you go to any doctor or hospital that accepts the Medicare Advantage's terms of payment for services. The private company, rather than the Medicare program, decides how much it will pay and how much you will pay for services. You may have a $20 co-pay for each primary care doctor visit. Extra benefits, such as lower hospital co-pays, may be offered.

Specialty Plans

These plans provide more focused health care for specific people. If you apply for one these plans, you will receive your Medicare health care as well as more focused care to manage a specific disease or condition. A specific disease might be end-stage renal disease.

These Medicare Advantage Plans, Managed Care, PPOs, Private Fee-for-Service or Specialty Plans, can be good for some people. The most important thing to remember is that you will have to contribute to the cost of your health care in any of these plans.

Unlike many traditional Medicare Supplemental Plans, these plans will require you to pay co-pays for services that you would not have to pay under traditional Medicare Supplemental Plans. The most appealing aspect of the Medicare Advantage Plans is the low monthly cost. Some plans in Nebraska will be free or charge as little as $9 per month for coverage. If you compare this charge to the traditional Medicare Supplemental Plans, the Medicare Advantage Plans are very affordable and far cheaper than the $100 to $185 per month charged for a Plan "F" Medicare Supplemental Policy.

Medicare Advantage Plans and the Prescription Drug Benefit.

Starting Oct. 1, some of the Medicare Advantage plans will offer their own drug benefit that may be better than what you would be able to get through the Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit available in Nebraska.

Everyone with Medicare must make a decision

Everyone with Medicare must make a decision

In 2006, recipients will be eligible for prescription drug coverage regardless of income or assets. Prescription coverage will be available to everyone with Medicare Part A and/or Part B. Like other insurance, if you join, you will pay a monthly premium, plus a share of the cost of your prescriptions.

You may join the prescription drug benefit by: (1) having original Medicare and applying for an approved prescription drug plan, or (2) joining a Medicare Advantage Plan that offers the prescription drug coverage.

The Medicare prescription drug coverage pays for brand name and generic drugs. While individual drug plans may vary, every plan must provide a standard level of coverage.

If you have limited income and resources, you may be able to get extra help. If you qualify, you will get help paying the monthly premium for your drug plan and/or some of the other costs for your prescriptions.

It is important that you join a Medicare prescription drug plan when you become eligible. Joining then means you will pay a lower monthly premium. After May 15, 2006, your premium will increase 1 percent for each month you delay enrollment.

Where do I get help if I Must Make a Decision?

The LIFE Office at the LAAA is training right now to help individuals make informed decisions on Medicare Prescription Benefit and Medicare Advantage Plans. You can call 441-7070 or (800) 247-0938.

You can call the Nebraska SHIP Program at (800) 234-7119.

You must send a completed application to the provider you choose between Nov. 15, 2005 and May 15, 2006. If you do not choose a plan during this period, one will be selected for you, effective June 1.

Dates to Remember
Oct. 15, 2005 - Approved drug plans announced.
Nov. 15, 2005 - Open enrollment for Medicare prescription drug coverage begins
Jan. 1, 2006 - Prescription drug coverage begins
May 15, 2006 - Deadline for open enrollment.
 Open enrollment ends

Standard coverage for Medicare prescription drug plans

In Nebraska you may see programs that offer different cost structures that could be better than the Standard Federal Benefit. If you have $70 per month in prescription costs you will benefit from this program

Drug cost	Medicare pays	You pay	Your total costs
$0-$250	$0	$250	$250
$250 - $2,250	$1,500	$500	$750
$2,250 - $5,100	$0	$2,850	$3,600

More than $5,100, Medicare pays 95 percent. You pay 5 percent or $2 for generic and $5 for brand names.

Some possible scenarios:

- Single with monthly income less than $798, and assets less than $4,000; or a couple with monthly income less than $1,070, and assets less than $6,000. Your prescription costs will be transferred from Medicaid to Medicare, effective Jan. 1, 2006. Enrollment will be automatic. If a plan other than the one in which you were auto-enrolled, provides better coverage for your prescription needs, you will be able to switch plans Nov. 15 - Dec. 31, 2005.
- Single with monthly income less than $1,077, and assets less than $6,000, or a couple with monthly income less than $1,445, and assets less than $9,000. You will be automatically enrolled in a program that helps pay cost's associated with Medicare prescription coverage. You can pick coverage that is right for you by choosing between the Medicare prescription drug plans being offered in your area.
- Single with monthly income less than $1,197, and assets less than $10,000, burial funds up to $1,500 and receiving no help with prescription drugs, or a couple with monthly income less than $1,605, and assets less than $20,000, burial funds up to $1,500 and receiving no help with prescription drugs. You must complete a subsidy application with Social Security Administration. Look for a letter and application from SSA, or go to your local SSA office. You will be notified by mail of your eligibility. Between Nov. 15, 2005, and May 15, 2006, choose the plan you prefer, complete the application, and send it to the provider.

Transportation, strength, education

The Seniors Foundation recently announced three initiatives to increase services to older adults in Lancaster County, according to Seniors Foundation Director Richard Blair.

The initiatives, part of a five-year strategic plan, include social transportation, strengthening and conditioning and the sponsorship of the Lincoln Area Agency Aging 5City television programs.

Social transportation

The Foundation identified a great unmet need for non-medical transportation. For years, the Foundation supported a van program run by Aging Services. These vans made 29,000 one-way trips last year, to ActivAge Centers and to some senior and community events.

The Foundation and Aging Services will look into the feasibility of a social transportation program modeled after a similar program in Portland, Maine.

Strengthening and Conditioning

The Foundation hopes to raise an additional $10,000 and a $5,000 sponsor to purchase new, elder-friendly strength equipment for the Downtown ActivAge Center. "Older people who exercise maintain better health," Blair said. "This is another quality of life issue."

Education

The Seniors Foundation now picks up the tab for 5City TV programs targeted to the interests of older adults in Lancaster County. These programs, created by Lincoln Area Agency on Aging, include Live and Learn, Exercise for a Lifetime; Yoga: Refresh and Renew and Pilates, plus rebroadcasts of concerts and events.

"From our perspective, helping to

Star City

Celebrate the Star City Parade Dec. 3 with two great events sponsored by the Lincoln Area Agency on Aging.

Front row seats to the parade

One of the best views of the parade is at the Downtown ActivAge Center, 1005 O Street, where staff and volunteers open the doors to the public for warm breakfast and lunch and great children's activities.

The center offers guests coffee and rolls, pancakes and, most importantly, a warm place to watch. Doors open at 9 a.m. and lunch, hot dogs and chili, is served at parade time, around 11:30 a.m.

Last year, the center welcomed more than 1,000 people, according to David Chapelle, Downtown ActivAge Center manager. "We did some important research and found a great pancake recipe," Chapelle said with a smile. Gooch's Mill and ADM provides

Polar Bear Picnic

Some Parade fans might choose the Polar Bear Picnic at Embassy Suites Hotel. This event brings children and grandchildren into a warm environment for games, crafts and fun with Santa.

Hosted by the Foster Grandparent Program of Lincoln Area Agency on Aging, the Polar Bear Picnic brings together older adults and children to play games and meet Santa before the parade, according to Martha Hakenkamp, Supervisor of the Foster Grandparent Program. Admission to the event is $7.50 for adults and $3 for children under 12.

Admission includes a breakfast buffet, games and giveaways. Funds raised are contributed by Embassy Suites to the LAAA Foster Grandparent Program. The picnic runs from 8:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Other supporters include the Seniors Foundation and Knowledge Beginnings.

- "The Bolters in Convention," Territorial Enterprise, 12/30/1863

Caring drivers

Seniors throughout the city count on van driver Larry Starr, for a ride to and from the city's ActivAge centers.

Starr, a four-year veteran, is one of 11 drivers throughout the city. He drives people who live from South to O Streets and 56th street west. The city includes seven routes in all.

Seniors who would like a ride should call two days in advance to receive the service. Starr said he picks up anywhere from four to 12 people.

He usually arrives at the downtown center around 8:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Once guests have eaten lunch, he's ready to return them home.

"I like it because I get to work part time and have a chance to get to socialize with people," Starr said.

LAAA, Wells Fargo team on Trees of Love

Lincoln Area Agency on Aging and Wells Fargo for the 19th year have teamed up to ensure older adults be remembered during the holidays by receiving a special gift they've wished for.

Participating nursing homes provide a first name along with the gift wish of a resident. The wishes are placed on ornaments and hung on one of the many Trees of Love. Trees of Love can be found in each lobby of Wells Fargo Banks in Lincoln.

Citizens of Lincoln are asked to come to a Wells Fargo Bank, take an ornament, write their own name on the attached thank you ornament which remains on the tree. The gift is then purchased and wrapped and dropped off at any Wells Fargo Bank.

This wonderful project began in 1987 with Lancaster Manor and has grown to include eight facilities. Thanks to the generosity of the community, more than 1,000 Lincoln residents have received a special holiday gift.

If your group or organization would like to make a holiday community project, call Laurie at 441-7026. Please help because after all, Christmas isn't just for kids!

ActivAge DIVERSITY

Lincoln's ActivAge Centers serve a richly diverse group of seniors.

LaNora Clay oversees the ActivAge Center at the Malone Center. Clay has worked there three years.

"Diversity is an ongoing project," she said. "It's how we approach the population."

Clay said diversity comes from within. She said she approaches and treats people the way she would like to be treated. "There are no color or boundaries lines to me," she said. "We go past racial and color lines while we make sure to adhere and respect different cultures and religions."

She enjoys working with the senior population. "We have a lot of fun together," she said. "Laughing is an international language."

The centers work with a variety of cultures. The Maxey Center for example, serves Caucasian, Native American, African American, Middle Eastern, and Asian people.

Clay said she's trying to learn some Spanish and Vietnamese for easier communication.

The center shares traditions like the Chinese New Year, Ramadan, Thanksgiving and winter holidays.

"You have to be open-minded to different foods, religions and ideas," she said. Clay said her job revolves around her clients. She oversees paperwork and stocks up on snacks. "I have a lot of volunteers in our groups," she said. "They have ownership in the center and do great things to make our services grow."

To reach Clay, call 261-4329.

Health clinic popularity grows

Seasoned citizens throughout the area benefit from the Senior Health Promotion Clinic held at the Downtown ActivAge Center, 1005 O Street.

Lincoln Area Agency on Aging and the University of Nebraska Medical Center entered the special partnership last year to serve the Lincoln and Lancaster County area. The clinic is available thanks to a grant from the tobacco settlement fund.

The center, open Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., works with Lincoln nursing and dental students in their senior year, as well as faculty members.

“The partnership with LAAA was outstanding from my view,” said Linda Santar, from UNL. “There’s a lot of camaraderie between partners and we’re meeting the needs of our older adults and helping to educate our young adults.”

Since it opened in 1999, the center has served 1,700 clients which averages about 100 clients per month. “We have a tremendous number of people come to participate,” said Traci Foreman. “This is a critical service for our community.” She said visitors wait patiently and appreciate what is provided.

Services include: a fully-equipped dental clinic; bone density screening; mental health care; ear care; breast cancer screening; smoking cessation; alcohol and nutrition counseling; physical health assessment; blood pressure, cholesterol and glucose screening; foot care; and consultations on medicines and treatment.

Seniors do not need an appointment.

LAAA operates the Downtown ActivAge Center and donates space and clerical support. LAAA also helps identify older adults who qualify for the services and provides transportation and interpretive services where needed.

“This is something people can count on to be here every week,” said Teresa E. Johnson, D.D.S., associate professor of dentistry, UNMC College of Dentistry. “The thought of the care and tenderness that is being provided here means a lot. People are cared for, respected and honored in a dignified way.”

The only cost is $1 for round-trip transportation. A fishbowl is available for donations.

Those wishing to eat lunch at the center should make a reservation two days in advance.

“We serve a diverse population and provide interpreters when needed,” Foreman said.

Many of the volunteers are medical students from UNL. “We have had people go from the clinic right to the hospital because of their blood pressure,” Foreman said.
