

COUNCILMAN JAMES MICHAEL BOWERS
NORTHEAST CITIZENS' MEETING
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 2019

Lori Seibel
Community Health Endowment

How does where we live, work, and play affect our health? In 2015, the Community Health Endowment of Lincoln first mapped a number of health factors and outcomes to help our community better understand the impact of place on health. Updated in 2017 and again in 2019, the maps continue to provide insight for policymakers, funders, nonprofit organizations, businesses, and residents throughout our community. Over the course of three mapping projects, we've learned that people relate deeply to maps where they can see factors affecting their own neighborhoods. We've also seen people gain new perspectives on neighborhoods where they've never been. Place Matters 3.0 was released in October 2019 and shows areas of improvement and areas where we can focus resources to help all Lincolnites achieve a healthier life.

Lori Seibel has served as President and CEO of the Community Health Endowment of Lincoln since its inception in 1998. Prior to joining CHE, Lori was an assistant to Mayor Mike Johanns and Interim Mayor Dale Young during the creation of CHE from the proceeds of the sale of Lincoln General Hospital to Bryan Health. Lori also worked with the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Department including positions as a Community Health Educator, Assistant Division Manager and Public Health Epidemiologist.

Lori is a graduate of Leadership Lincoln and holds degrees from Peru State College and the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Under Lori's leadership, the Community Health Endowment has reinvested more than $32 million into our community to achieve CHE's vision of making Lincoln the healthiest community in the nation. She has also led efforts to convene the community around important health issues such as access to care, integrating behavioral health and primary care, the effect of toxic stress and adverse childhood experiences on children's long-term health, and access to healthy food.
