Join us to explore the healing connection with animals, then enjoy dinner and a play!

Scatter Joy Acres

Manley Theater

Scatter Joy Acres is a 15-acre rescue and therapy ranch in Murray, Neb., that serves the community as an animal education center and petting zoo, featuring unique exotic animals. You will be able to explore at your own pace and interact with the animals. Please note, we will be walking on scattered-rock paths. Designed to be both accessible and welcoming, the ranch is deeply grounded in compassion for both people and animals.

After our time at the ranch, we will head to Manley, Neb., for an evening at the Manley Theater. There, we will enjoy dinner followed by a 7 p.m. performance of the play, Making God Laugh.

Reservations open now through April 3. Payment due within three days of your reservation. This trip must have at least 40 participants to occur.
